

HONOLULU: THE MELTING-POT

Mrs. Gerould, one of the foremost writers of the day, tells the curious story of Nature's mixing of the yellow, the white, and the brown races in these glorious islands of the mid-Pacific.

It is the first of three important articles on the Hawaiian Islands.

RETAIL TRADES MAKE PLANS TO BRING VISITORS

Further Reports Received and Good Start Made on Campaign to Draw Crowds

Further reports on steamer and railroad transportation rates and a preliminary report on hotel rates that are to be extended to visitors during the Kamehameha Day celebration term were received yesterday afternoon by the retail trades board at its meeting. The railroad and steamship rates were as published in the Star-Bulletin.

Not all of the hotels have yet been heard from relative to special rates from June 10 to June 14 and not all of these heard from will make any changes. The Territorial Hotel Company will make reductions varying from 10 to 15 per cent. Some of the other hotels stated that the summer rates which they now have in operation are so low that they do not see their way clear to make further reductions.

Tentative date for the departure of Raymond C. Brown, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been set for May 18, conditional upon receiving the sanction of the chamber. He will visit all of the islands and promote personally a campaign to awaken and to stimulate interest in the celebration in every part of the territory.

In the advertising campaign it was determined that brass band methods should be employed and $250 was appropriated to start matters moving. Subscriptions are to be solicited among the downtown retail houses.

The stickers were announced in readiness. Of these stickers bearing the slogan, "We expect to see you in Honolulu June 11," there have been printed 20,000.

The committee has the project well in hand and will systematically conduct the publicity campaign which they have undertaken.

BOTH COURT AND BOARD HAVE SAY IN THESE CASES

Carden Holds Jurisdiction Runs Concurrent in Accident Matters in Admiralty

That the city attorney's office at no time advised the Industrial Accident Board, nor has ever been of the opinion that the local federal court has no jurisdiction in admiralty cases of any kind, is the contention of Deputy City Attorney Will T. Carden.

This statement is brought about by the filing in federal court of an exception to the case of a Korean who has brought suit for damages against the steamer Claudine. The attorney who filed the exception, which holds that federal court has no jurisdiction to hear the case as it should rightly go before the Industrial Accident Board, stated to the Star-Bulletin that the attorney's office had informed the board that the latter has jurisdiction in all accident cases, including injuries to seamen.

"The position of the board in this matter is that it has been advised by the city attorney's office that, even though the admiralty courts have jurisdiction, the accident board also has jurisdiction," says Mr. Carden. "It is a case where the jurisdiction runs concurrent."

LAW PREVENTS MEETING NEEDS OF HUMANITY

There is a law on the books that the agents of the Humane Society do not like. It is the provision which makes it necessary for the consent of an animal's owner to be secured before it can be shot. Time after time a dog, or more frequently a horse, has suffered for days while the agents of the society have searched frantically for its owner. Miss Lucy Ward, the society's agent, has complained time and time again of the law.

Now Miss Ward is away on a long vacation and the acting agent, Mrs. R. R. Elgin, is having the same difficulty. To take the latest instance, a Chinese vegetable peddler drove his horse into the fields near the polo grounds Saturday morning when it broke its legs and promptly went away on a visit, for he knew if he was found he would be compelled to pay the cost of shooting and burying it.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Elgin heard of the case. The horse was lying in the stream running near there unable to get on its feet and forage, slowly starving to death and suffering intensely from its broken leg. After seeing that the animal was relieved she began a hurried search for its owner. Reports regarding the animal kept pouring into her office all day. Still she was unable to do anything, for she could not find the Chinese who had abandoned it.

This morning she was still hoping that he would turn up, for she had secured a warrant for his arrest and the police were hunting for him. Yet there was no way to put the horse out of its misery. "In most mainland cities the first police officer who arrives on the scene puts an injured animal out of its misery and then begins to look for the owner," she said. "That seems to me the only humane thing to do."

MAINLAND CROOKS DO NOT CARE TO STAY LONGER

Honolulu is a poor place for crooks. Detective Captain McDuffie has been informed that four who came here about two weeks ago from the coast have found such "slim pickings" that they're going to leave. The quartet has done nothing for which they could be arrested. In fact, they couldn't. The police "had their number" the moment they got off the boat, according to Captain McDuffie, and the crooks have complained to friends that they have been unable to turn a single trick.

"If that's the only thing Honolulu is very 'poor' for we're satisfied," said the captain today.

VETERAN SOCIETY NAMES OFFICERS FOR NEW YEAR

Mrs. Andrew Fuller was elected president of the Strangers' Friend Society at the annual meeting of that organization yesterday. Other officers chosen were Mrs. Sanford B. Dole, 1st vice-president; Mrs. A. Young, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. S. M. Damon, secretary; Mrs. E. W. Jordan, treasurer, and Mrs. E. B. Waterhouse, directress. The society has been organized 64 years, and reports presented yesterday showed that, during the last year, $843.60 has been disbursed in charity. The finances of the organization were reported to be in excellent condition.

ADVERTISE HAWAII IN UNION PACIFIC FOLDER

Hawaii is soon to be featured in the advertising of another big continental railroad system, the Union Pacific Company, having announced that the "Bulletin" is soon to devote considerable space to the islands. The "Arrowhead," which is the Salt Lake Route's publication, has already begun advertising the beauties of Hawaii.

ADDITION TO CENTRAL SCHOOL MAKES PROGRESS

Work on the addition to the Central school is well under way. All the necessary formalities have been complied with by the contractors, the Pacific Engineering Company, and there is no fear now of a hitch in the proceedings. It is expected that the building, which is to be a six-room structure of concrete, will be completed in time for occupancy at the opening of school in September.

Prof. James Hingworth was to give a lecture this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the scientific care of trees, speaking before the ladies of the Outdoor Circle at their last meeting until September.
